Some Inside Facts First Given Light-Mission to Several Countries - Cleveland - Kimberly.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.-Mrs. Lydia Dominie, some-time Queen of Hawaii, is no longer a serious factor in the consideration of affairs of the Hawaiian Islands, the United States having taken possession of that territory under an act of annexation which leaves no room for further question as to the sovereignty. But Mrs. Dominis is at present seeking to establish a claim for indemnity for the seizure of the crown lands of Hawaii by this government as part of the public domain which had passed to the republic after the overthrow of the monarchy, so that she is still, to a certain extent, a figure in the case, though her prominence is not so great as though there were any serious likelihood that this government will grant her claims. Under the circumstances, therefore, it becomes interesting to throw whatever light may be secured upon the history of this woman, particularly as affecting her trustworthiness. Nothing more clearly reveals the true character of an individual than the manner of treating tried and true friends. The Washington Star has received copies of a pamphlet just published in Honolulu which clearly prove that Mrs. Dominis, in the course of her recently published book, "Hawaii's Story by Hawaii's Queen," deliberately sought to discredit at least one of those who had stood true to her cause fluring the days when she was seeking a restoration to the throne.

COMPLETING RECORD.

The greater interest attaches to this pamphlet because it gives an accurate account of a transaction which has thus far been only imperfectly understood. It reproduces correspondence, which has until now never been pubkished, and is therefore important as a connecting link in this record.

Judge H. A. Widemann of Honolulu to whom the correspondence refers, has passed a long lifetime in Hawaii has the very highest standing in the community and enjoys the respect of both his friends and those politically strove for its retention and its restoration. He devoted much time and energy to the interests of the ex-queen after her dethronement, and received in return for his services in this unfortunate cause only contemptuous and elighting allusions in her book, already mentioned, accompanied by positive misstatements of fact. It is felt letter. in Honolulu that if there is any man living-perhaps excepting ex-President Cleveland-who deserves the gratitude of Mrs. Dominis, it is Judge Widemann. The correspondence, which in its printed form is accompanied by affidavits of authenticity, fully explains its own nature, and is as follows:

IN CHINESE EXCLUSION CASES

Will Learn More of Congress. Argument and Reason. Petition to Collector General.

(N. Y. Nation.)

One of the earliest blessings of our civilization to be extended to Hawaii is an attempt to harry the Chinese. A clause in the joint resolution annexing the Islands provided that "there shall be no further immigration of Chinese LAND NEAR ILOILO, into the Hawaiian Islands except upon such conditions as are now or may bereafter be allowed by the laws of the United States." Acting under this, the United States inspector of Chinese in Honolulu caused the arrest of a party of Chinese residents of Hawali returning from a visit to China. Some of them are men of property, and all had originally come to Hawaii under the treaty with that country allowing a restricted immigration. Their counsel sued for a writ of habeas corpus before the Hawaiian Supreme Court, and Chief Justice Judd granted it and ordered the discharge of the Chinese. He held that ese as respects future immigration. But of enactment. The Chief Justice, in fact, paid a high, unless it was a sarlegislation concerning the Chinese. He held, against the arguments of learned counsel, that such an "obvious tnjustice," such a clear case of "oppression," will be continued and no attempt to as would be involved in deporting land at Iloilo will be made at present, these Chinese residents could never have been intended by Congress. Mr. Justice Judd will learn more of Concress, in this and other capacities; but it is at least gratifying to know that the power of declaring the law in Hawall is still in the hands of so humane a man as he, and that he was able to frustrate this particularly mean effort to persecute.

Thirteen People Lost - Schooner Drifted From North-Was Bound Home From Shanghai.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The derelict discovered off the Kohala coast of Hawaii has been found to be the four-masted schooner Nomad. This news was brought to the city yesterday by the Mauna Loa.

The Nomad's death list is not known, but it is quite certain that Capt. Mc- 3 o'clock. Allep, his three sons and one daughter and a crew of eight men met with a watery grave. Only one body has been recovered, and that was washed ashore nearly two weeks ago.

Just previous to the departure of the Mauna Los from Kailua yesterday morning Purser M. M. Tuft got into telephonic communication with the authorities at Hilo. He was informed that an investigation of the wreck had revealed the name of the schooner to be the Nomad. He was also told that an American flag had been recovered and that a donkey engine was still fastened to the wreck. This latter news, however, was brought to the city by the Kinau Saturday night.

An investigation of the shipping records shows that the American schooner Nomad, McAllep master, has been reported missing for the last ten months.

There were on board of the schooner when she left the Chinese waters, Capt. McAllep, his daughter and three sons and eight men in the crew. None of the Nomad's human freight has ever turned up, excepting the headless and footless body of a man, which was washed ashore on the Kohala Coast.

schooner, just off the dry dock, when Capt. McAllep took command of her in San Francisco a little less than two years ago. She was of American build and was owned by Hall Brothers, ship builders of Port Blakeley. The Nomad carried four masts and was in the same class as the Alice Cooke and Aloha,

She is the only surviving member of the family.

Just when, where and how the Nomad met her fate will probably never be known. Capt. Campbell of the Inter Island Steamship Company, believes that the Nomad was wrecked off the northern American coast nine or ten months ago. About that time a wrecked schooner was seen in that locality, bottom side up, which was said to be about the dimensions of the Nomad.

It is Capt. Campbell's opinion that the wreck has been drifting toward Hawaii since its first discovery, and that it was finally held fast by the recks off the Kohala coast. Capt. Campbell spoke of the drifting of a Campbell spoke of the drifting of a an experiment. "After reading Mr. Charles J. Falk's interview in this morning's Advertis-er," said Capt. Campbell, "in which he stated that the wreck was some other schooner than the Emma Claudina, for the reason that a donkey engine was fastened to the ruins, I became satisfied that the mystery would be cleared up by finding that the ruins were those of the schooner Nomad. Consequently I was not surprised when the Mauna ganized on February 2, 1881, by Rev. F. Loa brought the news this afternoon." E. Clark, at Portland, Maine. The Capt. Campbell had lodged his conjecture before the news arrived.

The Nomad has never been in this port. Capt. McAllep has never been in societies have been organized among Hawaii. He is known to several of the skippers now in port. # FOUND OUT THE FRAUD.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 18.—The Press has just concluded an investigation of the dismantled workshop of John W. Keely, the motor man. The investigators were assisted by Professor Herring, a consulting electrical engineer of wide experience; Professor Arthur W. Goodspeed, assistant professor of physics of the University of Pennsylvania; Professor Leighter Witmer, professor of experimental psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. M. S. Miller, In addition to these gentlemen Clarence B. Moore, son of Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, and Mr. Coleman Sellers, Jr., took part in the examination of the flooring on Tuesday afternoon, when the most important find of all was made.

Every bit of flooring was ripped up and every nook and cranny explored under the flooring and under the walls. The results show that communication between the upper and lower rooms of the famous laboratory was easy, and was apparently one of the conditions under which the experiments were carried on. In a nutshell, the discovery of tubing under the floor of the main exhibition rooms and the brick partition wall between the exhibition rooms, in connection with the possible use of the great steel sphere as a reservoir for compressed air, or compressed gases, has convinced all the investigators that this was not only the possible but probable agency that moved the Keely motor.

The tubing is of the kind calculated to stand high pressure, and the amount of it found and the position of the few pieces in place is held by the investigators to go a long way toward solving the secrets of the famous laboratory.

Coleman Sellers said today: "After seeing the tubing in place under the floor of the Keely laboratory, I am inclined to the opinion that the inventor employed compressed air in his experiments. The size of the bore of the tubes indicates that they were intended to carry high pressure. It is impossible to see the tubes under the floor and believe in the inventors' sincerity. He could have had no honest object in creating them."

Kidd had buried a vasi emount of treasure in a box, which lisid at the bottom of the Hudson river at a spot two miles above West Point. He organized a company, and among the subscribers to the stock were a number of business men, and small traders. He did not ask for large ADMIRAL DEWEY AGAINST AN subscriptions, but suggested that a small investment would not ruin the investor if the scheme failed, and if it succeeded, the returns might be enormous. He obtained the sum of $60,000. The river was dragged by machinery especially constructed for the purpose. and divers were employed to walk the bottom of the river. Many months were enent in searching for the treasure, but nothing but old junk was brought up. The promoter of the scheme had an abiding faith that the treasure was in existence. He employed fortune tellers astrologers, and clairvoyants. Not one of them told him that the treasure did not exist. All declared that it did. One noted cairvoyant, on receiving an extra fee, undertook to visit the right spot, and point it out. But he, having received his the Philippines would not be permafee in advance, got drunk while in the nent. He is in close relations with the minds. The average Filipino does boat inspecting the river, and told the promoter that if the gold was discovered, it would belong to the people whom Capt. Kidd had robbed. This comment resulted in a fight, and the clairvoyant swam ashore. After the money of the Capt Kidd syndicate was spent, nearly all of the investors declined to admit that they had any interest in the undertaking. One of them, however, a farmer, brought suit to recover the money he had paid to the promoter. The case was tried before a Justice of the Peace The old farmer told the court that he "allowed" that Capt Kidd a money was "somewhar" in the river but he be-Bered that the promoter had found it, and was keeping the matter a secret, and he wanted the Justice to make bim show up. The Justice held that the crime charged was the concealing of information and he could not hold the prisoner on that ground and discharged him. The promoter informed the writer that he had 'promoted" a number of schemes for discovering Kidd's tressure buried as he believed in several places on the Atlantic coast He never found it.

THE PRESIDENT'S ANXIETY.

If one could penetrate the walls of the White House, and listen to the debates in President McKinley's Cabinet, he would hear little said about expansion, or Imperialism or the glory of the Flag, but he would hear the President and his advisors discussing the vital subject of reconciliation and amity with the Filipinos. PROVISION FOR PRINCESS KAIU LANI.

The plan of sending a petition to Congress asking that Princess Kaiulani be suitably provided for by law is most timely and just. The fact that so many who were actively engaged in the overthrow of the Monarchy unite in this request, shows a disposition to act generously towards a young woman who was the victim of a stupid blunder that irretrievably ruined the Monarchy. Since the overthrow, the Princess has behaved with excellent judgment in most embarrassing circumstances. Although the late Mr. T. H. Davies, in his singular regard for the native race, made her unduly prominent after the overthrow, it must not be forgotten that she was a young person who naturally yielded to older advisers. Mr. Davies himself, educated by the course of events, finally accepted, and advised ther to accept the situation. The Princess did not manifest disloyalty to the Republic, and at no time suggested or encouraged an attempt to restore the old order of things. Her self respect, her love of country, and of her race, her own high prospects, prevented her from looking upon the Overthrow with any pleasure. If she had accepted it with any alacrity, it would have been contrary to human experience, and so unprecedented as to have raised doubts about her capacity to feel or think. It speaks well for this community that it has no blunted sense of generosity in this matter. It does not propose to discuss "rights" in the marrow legal sense. "Rights," according to one of the ablest jurists, are "those rules of action which the moral sense of the people create." They may, and do, differ in different communities. Ine Princess in a strictly legal sense, probably has no rights in the matter. In the broadest sense, which the courts cannot interpret, she has "rights" that the coast, but has not yet placed an our consciences acknowledge. This is not a case for quibbling about. Aside from her relations to the Monarchy, the Princess, by her behavior, her disposition to make of herself a good example of the educated Hawaiian woman, swings us around into the ranks to be the ward of the little Republic, she should become, so long as she who by long residence take a kindly interest in the natives, desire that this representative of the little Hawaiian Monarchy should always live in dignity and comfort with us. SETTLEMENT FOR KAIULANI. ©

For four or five days there has been here in town a petition to Congress asking that a settlement be granted to Princess Kalulani. The young lady is in receipt of a grant of $2,000 cash annually from the Republic of Hawaii. It is presumed that this will cease upon the change of laws here. At any rate Kaiulani has friends who are willing to make a disinterested effort to secure for her 3 an allowance that will be permanent and that in the light of 💿 both past and present circumstances will be considered fair. Quite a number of the most prominent men of the community have signed the petition, which will in a short time be forwarded to Washington. Alex. Young, for many years prominent in the political and industrial life of the Islands, has had the document in charge. Mr. Young, though still heavily interested in Hawaii, has a residence in Oakland. He left for @ the coast by the Moana last night. However, he will proceed right along in this matter.

Information on Ostrich Farming Here is Wanted.

A REQUEST FROM WASHINGTON

Letter Came to Chas. M. Cooke. Answer Made by Mr. Turner. A Disease Found.

A specialist in charge of one of the bureaus of the department of agriculture at Washington, has written to Chap. M. Cooke for full information on these islands. Mr. Turner, for some time manager of the ostrich company, has replied and says:

Honolulu, H. I., Jan. 26, 1899. Mr. T. S. Palmer, Washington, D. C. fr. T. S. Palmer, Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir:—Having been interested with Mr. Chas. M. Cooke in his "ostrich venture" during which time I had charge of the birds, he handed me your letter, written some time ago, and asked me to reply to it.

I have not now any data at hand from which to get exact dates, but can give you from memory sufficient information to enable you to judge fairly in Decisions Made By Judge Perry. preparing your report. I am glad to be afforded the opportunity to give my views on this subject, as I fear that a mere history of the "ostrich business" would result in your reporting it another failure, due to uncongenial climate and soil.

Although these birds have failed to thrive here, I thing that the various difficulties attending our efforts to raise them can justly be attributed to a disease with which, in my opinion, the birds were infected when they were brought here-a disease which can exist in the birds when they appear to be perfectly healthy-but under the slightest unfavorable condition will soon cause fatality. The true cause was not known for several years—not until the majority of them were reduced to a degenerate lot unfit to redeem. I say this because of so many dying that in mating them they yielded to the temptation of inbreeding and each time inherited the weakness that disease had produced, so that for the last three years their eggs have failed to hatch with the best endeavors that could be applied, so that even if the inherited eakness did not cause the unfertility of the eggs, there is only one other cause that could enter into the question -feeding too highly of grain-and this high feeding became absolutely necessary to prevent fatality, for whenever the birds were in the least reduced they were simply devoured by the disease. I was first to discover that these birds had this disease and afterwards learned that it was prevalent in South Africa among ostriches, but no other animals or birds. Therefore I have good reason to claim that that it was imported with the birds. If I am right in this conclusion, the chances for successful ostrich farming in Hawaii are vet very good. Our climate is excellent, with much natural food, and the ostrich is capable of enduring severe conditions if healthy. A brief sketch of our experience and I will leave it with you to judge whether or not I am right: In 1890, or therexbouts, Dr. Trousseau brought two pairs of full grown birds from California, one of which (a male) was said to have been originally shipped from South Africa. A short time after they arrived one of them died. Dr. Troussen immediately sent for another one—this five in number. being all that were ever shipped to this country. They were placed in an enclosure near the well known pleasure resort of Waikiki, and soon began to breed, but their young were very difficult to raise-gradually dying at different ages until there were not more than 10 per cent of them matured. Frequent examinations were made and they were found to be dying from an "inflamed stomach," and, as a few mails or pieces of brass cartridge shells were generally found in their stomachs, these were said to be the cause of death. Both incubators and the nat- of Hawaii for the recovery of duties ural way were used in hatching, the paid under protest since the 15th day latter being more successful. They were fed corn, sorghum, alfalfa and cabbage. They had, however, in March '95. brought the number up to thirty-four, three pairs of which were breeding birds. At this time C. M. Cooke purchased them, and together with some other gentlemen of Honolulu, formed a stock company and decided to move the ostriches to the island of Kausi about 100 miles from Honolulu. We had what seemed an ideal place there. but the fatality amongst the birds became more frequent and we lost about 50 per cent of them within three months. As usual there was found upon examination come rubbish, such as pieces of nails, glass, etc., in their stomachs, but after all the nails were exhausted, they still continued to die with the same symptoms. I then procured a strong magnifying glass, under which I placed a small piece of the "inflamed stomach," and learned that they were being devoured by a small red parasite in the shape of a worm, yet so small that I think there were fully fifty on a piece much less than ball the size of a small pea. Describing the disease, I then made inquiry of an "ostrich farmer" in Cape Colony, who an abundance of grain, still they were never oured of the disease. Some of them were fat and seemed healthy, but I have known a fine fat bird to eat a large quantity of sorghum, which is hard to digest, and within forty-eight hours succumb to the attack of the parasite, the whole alimentary canal being infected with millions of them. The breeding birds laid a great many eggs, but we were unable to hatch them by any method that could be employed. The cause of this I do not know, but never came to any other conclusion than that: The disease, then the inbreeding, which together with the weakness inherited left a degenerate stock. Perhaps the feeding of the grain too heavily might have played some part in it, but this I doubt. There are a few, perhaps a dozen ostriches, on the island, but I think they are too beavily burdened to have any value as survivals of the fittest.

We made but one shipment of feathers, which were pronounced second rate in quality, however, a few of our birds had as fine feathers as could, be gotten anywhere. A few were sold in the local markets at a good figure.

I will enclose a drawing of the parthe ostrich farming experiments in asite as it appeared under the microscope, which please return by mail. Yours truly.

ALFRED H. TURNER.

The commissioners, upon their arrival in Washington, pursuant to these instructions, sent the following note to Secretary Gresham.

"We, the undersigned, Messrs Cummins, Parker and Widemann, commissioners sent by her majesty, Queen Liliuokalani, request an audience of the President of the United States.

"We desire to ask his excellency whether there is any hope for his doing anything for the restoration of the constitutional government of the Hawanan Islands."

Judge Widemann has told in his letter to Mrs. Dominis how the effort to secure an audience failed Following is a copy of the letter from President Oleveland, which was handed to the commissioners by Secretary Gres-

"Gentlemen You must permit n.e to remind you that this interview is not an official one, and that instead of receiving you in any representative capacity, I meet you as individuals who have traveled a long distance for the purpose of laying a certain matter before me.

"You ask me if there is any hope of my 'doing anything for the restoration of the constitutional government of the Hawaiian Islands.' I suppose that this question is largely prompted by the fact that soon after the overturning of the late government of the queen I investigated that transaction and was satisfied that there had been such an unjustifiable interference in aid of that movement, on the part of representatives of the government of the United States in its diplomatic and naval ser- ers. vice, as to call for correction, not only to rectify what seemed to be a wrong done to others, but also through that to be a danger to American honor and tion of a chairman was in order. If the advice given in those three words is heeded, good health will follow. City water is not good for many reasons, principally, because it is contaminated with vegetable and putrid matter of all descriptions. A simple analysis shows this to be a fect.

EXCERCISE

Our doctors are busy treating patients who are suffering from complaints, more especially malarial disorders, which will be materially benefitted if they drink a water that is pure and possesses curative features, as does Bartlett Spring Water.

DUE

Ask your family physician about the water, and if he is honest he will endorse its use.

All who have drank the water speak in the highest of terms for it.

This climate demands the use of such a water and you cannot afford to be without it.

VIGILANCE.

Capt. Kidd Had Residence That Thoroughfare.

'COOD NEIGHBORS

Married His Property-Was an Unlucky Pirate-Searching for Mythical Treasures.

(New York Sun.)

"And he sailed: and he sailed!"

At the last meeting of the New York Historical Society William S. Pelletreau read a paper on the subject of where Capt. Kidd lived and who his neighbors were. The Captain, according to Mr. Pelletreau, had very respectable neighbors, some of the best people of the city of New York living close to him in Wall street and its vicinity. In fact, Mr. Pelletreau was rather pained to note that among modern New Yorkers some of the very respectable people of other days of the city are not so well remembered as the pirate Captain who dwelt among them. As an instance, he cited an experience House Members Urging at the time the statute of Recorder John Watts was put up in Trinity churchyard. Of five young fellows who stood looking on, all of whom presumably had had the benefits of a common school education in the city three when asked who John Watts was answered: "You've got me;" one said that he was the hymn writer, and another that he invented the steam engine. "Any of these would have been able to tell who Capt. Kidd was," said Mr. Pelletreau. The incident may have suggested itself through the connection of the name of Gen. De Puyster, who erected the statue, with the history of Capt. Kidd's New York resi-

Col. Abraham De Puyster was the most important neighbor the pirate Captain had, Mr. Pelletreau said. Capt. Kidd lived at what is now 56 Wall street, and although nearly all the lots of that neighborhood have undergone changes in the last two centuries, that lot remains as it was laid out at the time Kidd lived on it. It seemed a bit curious, with all the stories of Kidd's wealth in mind, to hear the speaker say that Capt. William Kidd never bought a lot, never built a house and never owned one. Kidd came into his Wall street house by marriage. After the need for the wall which gave Wall street its name had disappeared the property on the north side of the street was bought in part on speculation. In 1689 George Brown, maltster, sold a 1ot there to William Cox for £60. Cox was drowned in August of that year off Staten Island, and in 1691 his widow married Capt. Kidd. Mr. Pelletreau said that the only person who seems to have said a good word for Capt. Kildd that has come down to us was a brother-in-law, Samuel Bradley, who praised him in a will which he made

Bradley, however, outlived Kidd. Cox had left his property in such shape that his wife inherited the Wall street house. She did not, Mr. Pelletreau said, from the evidence that is attainable, lose any social standing by marrying Kidd. Col. De Puyster owned the property all along William street O near Wall and the grounds were known as De Puyster's Gardens. The land remained in the De Puyster family many years. There were plenty of neighbors on the east, along Pearl street. The O Kidds held property in the neighborhood of 27 Pine street, and some authorities say that it was the Captain's intention to build on those lots, but O on July 3, 1693, he and his wife sold O them to Capt. Thomas Clark, who, in February, 1695, sold them at a good profit. In 1693 the Kidds sold some O two houses on it. He lived until 1728. Another important neighbor of Kidd was James Graham, an Alderman, who one night was stabbed with a sword by Capt. James Baxter. Many witnesses were examined, but they proved as blind as the proverbial bat. They all knew that the Alderman had been stabbed and that the Captain had had something to say to him privately, but none saw the thrust. Dierck Vander Cliff, proprietor of the well-known house of entertainment on the north side of Maiden lane, near Gold street, was one of the blind witnesses. The gentlemen had been drinking wine and cider at his place.

Kidd came to his end on May 12. 1701, when he was hanged in England, purpose of protesting against the po-His wife soon afterward married again and outlived her third husband. Mr. Pelletreau said that Capt. Kidd, as he walked about the city in three-corner- there ed hat and fine blue coat, doubtless presented a very respectable and digpified appearance Mr. Pelletreau, asking whether he was justly or unjustly condemned, said that if he was innocent the question was pertinent, "How did be accumulate all his property?

ON WALL STREET England at that time the laws were AT barbarous and the administration of them more them more so. If a man was charged with felony there was little chance for him to escape; there were no courts of appeal, and if he was tried and condemned one day of a week, the following Friday saw him hang-

> Mr. Pelletreau suggested that among all the memorial tablets which were being put up, one might appropriately be erected on the site of Capt. Kidd's Wall street house, with an inscription saying that there had lived the pirate Capt. Kidd, who broke God's laws as he sailed, and who, had he kept them, would have been happier, but less fa-

An elderly member of the society said that he remembered as a boy having seen people searching for Capt. Kidd's treasure up the North River, although it was a fact that after Kidd recruited his pirate crew here he never in his life came nearer to the city again than Oyster Bay. There were lots of reputable people in New York in those days, this member said, who were making money by collusion with other pirates. Kidd, he said, was one of the most unfortunate of pirates.

the Hawaiian Bill.

Early Hearing Wanted-Reasons Are Given-Hint of Special Enactments

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 .- The Hawailan bill was agreed to in committee some days ago, and Chairman Knox of the committee on territories is drawing up the report for the House. There was some idea that the bill might be taken up this week, but, owing to the press of business, it went over with the understanding that a strong effort would be made next week to get a hearing then or soon after. Mr. Knox and Mr. Hitt, the latter being one of the Hawaiian commissioners, say that no purpose is manifest to postpone the legislation until the next Congress meets. They say also that it is imperative that legislation of some character shall be enacted. One reason cited for this is that there has been a large influx of Japanese immigrants to Hawaii since the annexation law was enacted, and that some 10,000 contract labor Japanese will be brought into Hawaii and then into the United States. For this reason the extension of United States immigration restrictions to Hawaii is held to be of first importance. A similar view is taken as to extending the United States customs and revenue laws to the islands. The latter extension is effected by a special bill, which has already passed the House and is pending in the Senate. There is a growing disposition among those interested in the legislation to secure the passage of the bill as a whole very soon, and in the event that this is not practicable, to secure the enactment of such special features as are most

Place Where Mosquitoes Force a Quarantine.

Lady Writes of the Season in Florida-Social Life at a Standstill - Brushing.

(Harper's Weekly.)

I shall never forget the feeling I had when one of my neighbors said, at the beginning of the season: "Oh, well, there are not many days when you cannot drive into town in the middle of the day for the mail." I did not understand her, or scarcely believe her, but I do now. I also know of several other families who have regularly prepared for the mosquito season by laying in a stock of sewing and reading, and who announced, when the season began, that they did not intend to go out or to receive until it was over; so that practically all social life is at a standstill, invitations usually ended with "weather and mosquitoes permitting." The moonlight nights in this little corner of the earth are glorious. but we have only been able to enjoy them from our front plazza steps once in nearly two months, and then only for a brief half hour, while a strong sea breeze swept in over the bay; at the same time, friends living a mile away have sat out on the piazza, "every evening for a while."

I am writing of life on the coast of Florida, more than 300 miles south of St. Augustine, and of a part of the country that, in spite of mosquitoes, has a wonderful future before it, and is already the great truck garden section of the state for early vegetables and tropical fruit, as well as a most delightful winter resort and fishing and hunting country.

Sitting how at my front door, behind a screen of the finest wire work, I can look out on to one of the most beautiful of landscapes, the blue waters of the hay rippling in the sunshine, the long leaves or branches of the cocoanut trees bending and swaying with a pleasant rustling, while the crimson blossoms of the hibiscus bushes are nodding good-naturedly over the gray stones of the wall at the mocking bird playing hide-andseek among the ginger plants; and just beyond the wail, on the path leading up from the water, and bordered on both sides by banana trees, there comes a man, who has just landed at the wharf with a string of sea trout for me; he wears a frame over his head covered with mosquito netting, and, as they say here, is "batting himself" with a green branch that I saw him break from my favorite guava tree. Of course I shall buy the fish, which will cost a mere trifle, but it will take at least ten minutes to clear the kitthen of mosquitoes that will come in with the sea beauties; for, as my fisherman says, "they are very bad this morning "

If he were a visitor he would have to brush or be brushed off before he could enter with the palmetto brush, that takes the place of the front door bell during mosquito time; for the brushing operation is a noisy one All out-of-door work must be attended to in the middle of the day, when the mosquitoes are less troublesome.
